Solano County

Solano County is a special place, with its inviting mix of rural and suburban lifestyles and easy access to all of the urban amenities associated with two of the nation's most dynamic metropolitan regions. Situated midway between San Francisco and Sacramento, the State Capitol, Solano County is home to rolling hillsides, waterfronts and fertile farmland. County residents can enjoy day trips to the San Francisco Bay Area, Lake Tahoe region and the Napa and Sonoma Valleys. Thanks to a mild climate, plenty of open space, proximity to lakes, rivers and mountains, residents can enjoy year round outdoor recreational activities like fishing, boating, skiing, hiking and biking.

Solano County is a growing community that reaps the benefits of its ideal location for those who live and work here. The blend of agriculture, corporate business and pleasant lifestyle enhance the attraction of Solano County. The County limits residential and commercial development outside of cities, thus preserving approximately 80 percent of the land for open space or agricultural uses. Blessed with a thriving agricultural economy, the County is also home to biotechnology and other growth industries. With its strategic location, affordable housing, natural and human resources, a history of responsible land use planning and attractive quality of life, Solano County has entered the 21st Century with a promising future as a place to live, learn, work and play.

County Government and the Health and Social Services Department

The County encompasses over 900 square miles and has a population of over 445,000 residents, which are concentrated in the seven incorporated cities of: Benicia, Dixon, Fairfield, Rio Vista, Suisun, Vacaville and Vallejo. A five-member County Board of Supervisors governs Solano County. The Supervisors appoint a County Administrative Officer to oversee the day-to-day operations. County operations have an operating budget of approximately $900M with a staffing allocation of over 2,900 employees.

The Department of Health and Social Services provides a variety of services aimed at improving the lives of children, adults, families and the elderly. The department's leadership strives to operate as a collaborative team who are committed to developing a fully service integrated, healthy, productive organization that prides itself on providing excellent services. Through countywide planning and coordination, the County's role in health care includes providing social and clinical services and health care assistance, alcohol, drug and mental health services and protecting the community from public health threats.

Over the years the functions of public and behavioral health, and social and human services have integrated to form one single department, Health and Social Services. Today it is the largest department in the County, with an operating budget of $330+ million, a senior and executive management staff of 10, and approximately 1,200 employees working in multiple office locations throughout the county. The department delivers services and programs to residents in all seven cities and unincorporated areas, and is currently organized into five divisions: Administration, Social Services, Public Health Services, Behavioral Health Services, and Public Assistance Programs. The department is in process of undergoing a transformation that will allow for services to be integrated from a customer perspective to improve outcomes and community health and well-being.

The Position and Ideal Candidate Profile

The Employment Eligibility Division is the largest division in the County Health and Social Services Department. The Employment & Eligibility Division of Solano County Health & Social Services administers various federal, state, and local government programs designed to provide health coverage, food, and cash assistance for eligible low-income Solano County residents. These programs include: CalWORKS, CalFresh, General Assistance and the largest program offered, Medi-Cal. The division serves as the first point of contact for county residents seeking assistance.

The Deputy Director will have strong technical knowledge of public assistance programs to ensure program compliance continues. Program compliance will be a chief concern for the new Deputy Director and cross departmental collaboration, especially with HR, will be required to ensure compliance standards are met. Additionally, the person will need to be an innovative operational thinker to ensure that the Division is as customer friendly and efficient as possible. Given that the division is the first point of contact, there is an ongoing process of journey mapping to ensure that the customer experience is as friendly and helpful as possible and the Deputy Director will need to be actively engaged to ensure high level service delivery.

The Deputy Director will be joining the Department in the midst of shifting to a more integrated service model. This will require a high level of collaboration and a team-oriented management style that ensures that all parts of the division work well together within the County health operation. An ability to build effective relationships with various County Officials, the Board of Supervisors and organized labor will also be important. The ideal candidate will be an experienced organizational leader that is masterful with change management, while incorporating the technical expertise of internal and external resources. A rich experience base in managing health and social service programs and services in California is expected in this role. A leadership style that's relationship based, focused on measurable results, and emphasizes mentorship and staff development are essential attributes. Excellent communication skills, exceptional diplomacy, and a high level of self-initiative are also needed in this assignment.

The candidate must have four years of management experience in a public or non-profit social services agency which included program planning and evaluation, budget management, personnel management and policy development. A Master's degree in Public Administration, Social Work or a closely related field from an accredited college or university is required.
